Gin

The first confirmed date for the production of gin is the early 17th century in Holland, although claims have been made that it was produced prior to this in Italy. In Holland it was produced as a medicine and sold in chemist shops to treat stomach complaints, gout and gallstones. To make it more palatable, the Dutch started to flavour it with juniper, which had medicinal properties of its own.

Tradition suggests rum first originated on the island of Barbados however, in the decade of the 1620s, rum production was recorded in Brazil.

History of Fire and The Mansion House

Built in 1710, The Mansion House has been the official residence of the Lord Mayor of Dublin since 1715.

Joshua Dawson; after whom Dawson Street is named; built the Mansion House and was the first to develop this area of the city which was once marshlands.

On the 25th of April 1715 the Mansion House was purchased for £3,500, an annual rent and a six pound loaf of double refined sugar every Christmas.

It was the first purpose bought Lord Mayor's Residence in the United Kingdom.

The room in which Fire Restaurant is now located is formally called The Supper Room. The present room is the third structure built for such a purpose on this site. The first was built in 1864, the second in 1881 and the last in 1891.

The room, built on a budget of £1,500, was used as the supper room for the Lord Mayor initially, later it was used as a cultural centre but in the 1990s it returned to its original purpose as a supper room and became a commercial restaurant. In 2005, it became Fire @ The Mansion House, whilst the building itself remains in the care of the state, and the Lord Mayor is still in residence in the Mansion House and often comes to dine in 'The Supper Room'.
